SHARON E. MILLIGAN, Ph.D.

Faculty Biographical Sketch

Sharon Milligan is an Associate Professor and Co-Director of the Center on Urban Poverty and Social Change. She received her Ph.D. from the University of Pittsburgh in 1982 and joined the Mandel School in 1988. Since 1973 when she began her career as a social work coordinator at the Chicago Housing Authority Child Development Program, she has been continuously involved in the social work and public health field as a program developer, researcher, teacher and consultant to government and voluntary social agencies for women, children and the elderly.

Dr. Milligan teaches graduate courses in social welfare policy and research methodology. As Co-Director of the Poverty Center, Dr. Milligan was the principal investigator in a study to uncover technology for evaluating conditions and assets in low-income communities. She directed several funded research projects focusing on health and minorities.

A contributor of scholarly articles to professional literature, Dr. Milligan's publications appear in Women and Health, The New England Journal of Medicine, Controlled Clinical Trials, Social Work in Health Care, The Gerontologist, Ethnicity and Disease, Community Mental Health Journal and Arthritis Care and Research.
