CONVERSATIONS IN PHILANTHROPY

Sponsored by:
Jack, Joseph and Morton Mandel School of Applied Social Sciences
Master of Nonprofit Organizations (MNO) Program

Philanthropy is a Big Tent:
Making philanthropy part of your lifelong commitment

April 28, 2015, 4:30 – 6:00pm

Mandel Community Studies Center Room 115

Many of us may think that philanthropy has nothing to do with us or that it is only for the wealthy. The reality is that philanthropy intersects with virtually all dimensions of modern society and is relevant to us all.

This session will explore philanthropy’s relevance to a broad range of interests and initiatives. Beyond that, it will suggest that each of us can integrate a philanthropic spirit into our lives as part of our commitment to the civic good.

Presenters:

Leah Gary, MSN 1985
President and CEO of the William J. and Dorothy K. O’Neill Foundation
Prior to joining the O’Neill Foundation, Ms. Gary was the Vice President for Program and Evaluation at the Saint Luke’s Foundation of Cleveland, Ohio where she was responsible for the program development and coordination of the Foundation’s evaluation activities. She also served as the vice president for Community Health, Workforce Development and the Northeast Ohio Trauma Foundation at the Center for Health Affairs. Her work there focused on community health and policy development.

Jazmin Long, MSSA/MNO 2015
Exploring African-American Philanthropy: Results of an independent Study
Jazmin is a development intern at Engage! Cleveland. Having worked in community organizing for nearly five years, she has developed a passion for championing the rights of disenfranchised populations and working towards empowering communities. Her work has focused on promoting equity and sustainability, social inclusion, civic engagement, political empowerment, and good governance.

- This is the third in a series of three conversations -

To register, please email Maria Sharron, maria.sharron@case.edu.